Where's the answer?

THAT will depend on the question. So to take part in our own Half Term Quiz, look at our new school website.

We're really proud of the way we now look. We hope you agree that the changes we've made give you and other visitors, a good, clear impression of our school.

We taken lots of advice and tried to build a website that is user friendly—you can look at it on a desktop computer, a laptop or your mobile phone while you're waiting in the playground.

We've tried to make the menu logical, telling the story of Ashford CE Primary from the point of view of a current parent or a potential parent. We've also tried to offer suggested websites children can visit for more, useful information to help them in their learning.

There are 15 questions. Answers should be sent into school on Monday 2 June. Class teachers will be awarding house points for every correct set of answers. We will publish the correct answers and a note of the number of house points awarded for correct entries in our next issue.

Meanwhile, I wish all our parents and children a restful and enjoyable half term break. Enjoy the sunshine, if there is any—and come back to school refreshed and ready for our last few weeks this year.
