

Why did people build Stonehenge?

Where did the stones come from?

The sarsen stones

There are two types of stone used at Stonehenge.

Here are the sarsen stones used for the sarsen circle and trilithons.

The bluestones

There are two types of stone used at Stonehenge.

In front of the sarsens, are the smaller bluestones that may have arrived earlier and have been moved around extensively.

Where they came from

The sarsen stones are local, and probably came from near Avebury.

The bluestones, though, were brought all the way from West Wales.
