

Monday 11th March

Dear Parents/Carers,

TALKING MATHS

One of the current things that our senior leadership team are working on is the development of maths approaches in the schools. As part of this, and as one of our current school development plan priorities, we are keen to engage parental views on how we could support parents in supporting their children with maths at home and in everyday life. We would love to get your ideas and hear your feedback as we plan ahead to develop this area of children's learning.

We are holding a Talking Maths focus group with parents, hosted by a senior leader and governor, and would welcome a handful of parents to attend this discussion group. The group will meet in school on Tuesday 26th March at 2pm, and it will be finished by pick up time at 3pm. The purpose will be to discuss school-wide approaches in supporting parents with helping their children with maths; not to discuss individual children. If you feel you could help us with some feedback in this area, and even have ideas which you could share with us, then we would welcome this.

If you are able to join us, please let me know or speak to a member of our office team. Alternatively, if you know that this is not a time you could make, but are keen to share your thoughts on maths, please drop me a line with your feedback. All of this will help us in moving forward in enabling our children at Ashford to be the best they can be in maths.

Thank you for your support with this.

Yours sincerely,

Richard Austin
Head of School
