

Staying safe while staying home

IN these times when your children may be spending more time than usual on 'screen time', please do be mindful of keeping your child safe online. Keeping screens in open places in the house, ensuring protective measures on devices and talking regularly with your child about their screen time are all positive ways to ensuring their screen time is an enriching and safe time of the day.

To support you with further information, don't forget that our website is a wealth of information on online safety (including slides Mr Dodman presented to parents earlier in the year), which you can find here: <http://www.ashford-primary.surrey.sch.uk/parents/safety.php>

Truth to tell

EVEN though most of you can't come to school at the moment, you can still come to collective worship! Featuring our current ishare theme of Truth to tell and Mr Meehan, check out our virtual Collective Worship on the website now.

Keeping up the good work

WE are delighted that so many of you that are confined to home have been working hard and have sent us some of your achievements. Not forgetting the children of key workers who are still coming to school and have also produced some marvellous work. Have a look you may see yours here.

Free online book

IF you like reading or being read to, why not have a look at this free book. It's called The book of Hopes by Katherine Rundell and can be found at:

Sing a new song

IS singing your thing? Perhaps you are missing Mr Bruce's singing worships. Why not have a go at learning a new song? Search for The Blessing (Kids) on YouTube. A great upbeat song to make you smile!

Weekly Reflection

Consider it pure joy, my brothers and sisters, whenever you face trial of many kinds, because you know that the testing of your faith produces perseverance. Let perseverance finish its work so that you may be mature and complete, not lacking anything.
