

It was the tenth plague that finally made the Pharaoh let them go. The eldest son in every family, including the Pharaoh's, died.

The Israelites marked their doorposts with lamb's blood so that they would be safe.

The Israelites fled but soon after the Pharaoh changed his mind and sent his army after them.

Moses lived in the land of Midian and worked as a shepherd for forty years. One day, in the desert, he heard the voice of God from a burning bush.

God asked Moses to lead his people out of slavery in Egypt to the Promised Land.

Moses went back to Egypt and asked the Pharaoh to free his people. The Pharaoh did not want to lose his slaves so he refused.

God was angry and unleashed ten plagues on the Egyptians.

Moses grew up in the palace as a royal prince. One day he lost his temper and killed an Egyptian who had beaten an Israelite slave to death.

He had to flee to another land.

The Israelites were free but they still had nowhere to live. They were searching for a land called Canaan, which they had been promised by God.

The journey was long and they were hungry. Moses promised that God would provide food.

When Moses was born, the Israelites were slaves in Egypt. Pharaoh was afraid that one day they would fight against him, so he ordered his soldiers to kill all the baby boys. To save Moses, his mother put him in a basket and floated him down the River Nile.