After the feast, I went to bed but I couldn't sleep.

"What am I meant to do with you?" I begged. "Please tell me..."

Suddenly, the amulet started to swing back and forth on its string.

The stone eyes drew me in to their shiny, inky darkness.

As quick as a flash, I scabbled to my feet and looked around.

Above me, lightning kept flashing across the sky.

Strangely, I could hear nothing, only see.

A long, black shadow streaked out of the burning wood.

"Wolf, is anything the matter? I thought I heard Shadow growl" asked my mother.

"I'm fine," I said quickly.
